NEED FOR DHIA SUPERVISORS CITED

Virginia needs more dairy herd improvement association supervisors. Glen R. Pursley, assistant dairy husandman at VPI, says supervisory positions are now open in Prince William, King William, Nottaway, and Orange, and vacancies are expected in other DHIA's. The pay is $250-$325 per month, including lodging and meals.

A training course for DHIA supervisors is scheduled for June 9-21 at VPI. If you are interested, see your county agent, or write the Dairy Husbandry Office, Agricultural Extension Service, VPI, Blacksburg.

The Norfolk and Western directly and indirectly serves more than 23,000,000 people in the six great states in which it operates. It provides swift, safe, comfortable passenger service . . . it provides Precision Transportation to bring into these states the vast varieties of goods their people need, buy, and sell through 263,000 retail establishments. It moves to markets the products of more than 28,000 large and small manufacturing firms in the territory.

The Norfolk and Western receives a large part of its revenues from you, the people who live in the villages, towns and cities along its line. At the same time, a large part of the railroad's revenues are poured back into the communities it serves.

The railroad provides employment for more than 23,000 breadwinners who live along its line. Their wage dollars are circulated among the local butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker . . . used to support local churches and charities, paid into local tax funds, deposited in local banks, used to build local homes.

The railroad, year in and year out, pays millions of dollars in taxes which help to provide better schools, streets, libraries, parks, and police, fire, health and recreation departments.

Annually, the Norfolk and Western buys many millions of dollars worth of materials and supplies from business firms along its line.

And the railroad carries on an intensive campaign through national advertising and personal contact to bring new business into its territory. New businesses in communities mean more jobs, and better living for all.

When you consider the many ways in which the Norfolk and Western and the people who live along its line serve each other, and depend upon each other, it's easy to see —

IF YOU LIVE IN OR NEAR ANY OF THESE TOWNS, WE'RE PARTNERS!

2, 4-D KILLS HONEYSUCKLE

Don's kill honeysuckle indiscriminately—it has some uses.

John Amos, weed specialist at VPI, says that in many locations, honeysuckle prevents erosion, provides cover for wildlife, and some forage for cattle when little else is available. Honeysuckle does contain some animal food nutrients; however, modern forage crops are much superior.

To kill honeysuckle along roadsides, in front of houses, where it hides a scenic view, and in other undesirable places, Amos suggests using 2, 4-D at the rates suggested on the container. If there are also brambles and small woody bashes in the area to be cleared, a mixture of 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T will give better results.

Be careful when spraying 2, 4-D about the home, as the spray may drift to other plants and damage them. Vapors from sprayed areas also may injure very sensitive plants, such as tobacco, cotton, tomatoes, and vine crops.

Since it is hard to free sprayers of 2, 4-D, Amos suggests using a separate sprayer for killing weeds. Do not use it to spray insecticides and fungicides.

MINERAL OIL MAY CAUSE SERIOUS LEAF LOSSES WHEN USED FOR SUCKERS

A warning that mineral oil, and mineral oil emulsions, used on tobacco to control suckers may cause serious leaf losses, is given by G. R. Mathews, tobacco specialist at VPI.

Mathews says that although VPI Agricultural Experiment Station researchers have shown that under certain conditions the oil applications will give control, these definitely are not recommended at the present time.

Under some weather conditions, growers who use these materials at heavy rates are likely to damage their tobacco crop seriously.

Tests on the use of the oil are continuing at the Station, and recommendations for or against will be given when the tests are complete.

HOMEMAKER'S ITEMS

How long will your wool clothing wear?

Miss Iva Byrd Johnson, clothing specialist at VPI, says research has indicated that the amount of new or virgin wool in a garment or article should be a guide when you buy.

All new wool gives the best wear according to the tests, but fabrics of half, or less than half, reused wool wear reasonably well. The more reused wool in a blended fabric, the less service you can expect from it. Wool fabrics or part wool fabrics are so labled. The amount of new wool, reused wool or other fiber used in the blend is stated on the label.

There are certain articles which may meet your needs when made of blends of new and reused wool or other fibers. Perhaps children will outgrow the garments, and there is no one to pass them on to. Or perhaps the garment will be subjected to hard wear.

Many have used blends satisfactorily. But remember that Too much—that is over 50 percent reused wool, in a blend, does not give enough fabric strength to stand the strain of much wear.

Torn pages of books may be held together with transparent library mending tape, or special tissue paper and paste, both of which are sold at book stores. Use a flat hard surface when mending.

Spots or soil on cloth binding may be removed with an art gum eraser. Occasional applications of household wax—paste or cream—to leather bindings offer good protection.

TEMPORARY CHANGE OF LOCATION

You have doubtless observed the new addition to the old banking quarters, which is only part of the entire program of improvement and modernization.

Within the course of the next several weeks the present banking quarters will undergo drastic changes, resulting in lowering the floor to the street level and a complete rearrangement of the interior with the installation of new modern low type fixtures.

Increased volume of business for which we are deeply grateful prompted us to undertake the program, and while it is in progress it will necessarily inconvenience our customers. We sincerely hope upon its completion that we may serve you with increased efficiency and that all of us will enjoy the modernized quarters to the fullest extent.

Please bear with us while the work is in progress and if the present building does not look like business as usual——

Will You Please Go Up The Stairway In The New Addition . . . And You Will Find Us Ready, Willing And Anxious To Serve You In OUR TEMPORARY QUARTERS

When we move down, sometime within the next several months, we are looking forward to serving you in a completely modernized bank building.

Thanking you for your cooperation in this progressive program, we are yours for service and progress.
